VARDARO STUDIO

Your Special Day

It's probably an understatement to say that you need your wedding photography to be brilliant, to mirror the emotion, the fun, the love and the joy of your special day. After all, your wedding images are an investment which will last a lifetime.

Planning is very important, we recommend:

Arrange a pre-wedding consultation with Italo or Anne before your invitations are designed, printed and posted. This helps you organise a wedding day timetable, ensuring that you have plenty of time for your special on-location photography. With time pressures taken care of you can relax and enjoy your day.

Your pre-wedding consultation is also extremely important because it gives you the opportunity to ask lots of questions, seek advice and, importantly, for you and Italo to get to know each other so you both know exactly what to expect on your wedding day.

During this consultation it's a good idea to bring with you any magazine cuttings or photographs you've found that you particularly like, so that you can discuss them with Italo and Anne.
